

Safe LiPo Charging and storage.

Whilst not trying to cause and panic but also wanting to make you aware on the potential hazards from LiPo cells, I found this interesting post from the BMFA (British Model Flying Association) Facebook group.

This little box saved my garage and its contents last night.

On entering my garage, I noticed a strange smell the Bat-Safe had been turned off the previous day and no signs of anything wrong from the outside.

The pictures are self-explanatory, I think.

I have had a couple of Bat-Safe boxes for some time now and they do give you peace of mind. They are not cheap, but neither are houses!

If you look carefully at the wiring, it looks as if there are a few odd connectors that may (or may not) have shorted out. However, regardless of the reason, the main point is that this product saved this person's garage! I have added some links to these products. Could be worth the cost many thousands of times over if you did have a problem.

<https://www.makeitbuildit.co.uk/products/bat-safe-mini-lipo-charging-safe-box>

<https://www.makeitbuildit.co.uk/products/bat-safe-medium-lipo-charging-safe-box>

<https://www.makeitbuildit.co.uk/products/bat-safe-xl-silver-lipo-charging-safe-box>

<https://www.makeitbuildit.co.uk/products/bat-safe-xxl-silver-lipo-charging-safe-box>

